THE OFFICE CHAIR

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT COMPONENTS OF A PROPER WORKSTATION IS THE OFFICE CHAIR!

The type of work being performed in the office often dictates what kind of chair is required. The size of the person doing the work might also affect the proper choice. This guideline is intended for most users, but accommodating the extremes in a person's height, weight, physical disability, etc., is a fact of life and must be part of the planning process.

- The chair should have a seat back with lumbar support capable of both up-and-down and front-and-back adjustment. The seat back should provide support to both the lower back and the shoulders and enable the person to sit comfortably upright without slouching
- To accommodate the height of the user, the chair height with respect to the floor should be adjustable
- The seat pan should be capable of tilting and it should have a contoured or waterfall front
- Hip angle: 90°-120°
- Knee angle: 90°-130°
- Ankle angle: 100°-120°
- The front edge of the seat should curve away and down from the back of the person's legs to promote circulation in the lower legs. Tilting transfers weight from your hips to your legs, encouraging normal back curve and reducing pressure on the discs in the lower spine
- The seat pan and backrest should be upholstered and cloth covered with a fabric that is breathable. Seat padding should not compress more than one inch when an individual is seated
- The height of the armrests needs to be adjustable with respect to the seat pan. Adjustable height arm rests relieve tension in the upper back, neck, and shoulders, by allowing the user's arms and wrists to be in parallel position. They also provide resting planes
- To accommodate the breadth of the user's lower torso, the office chair armrests should be capable of in and out adjustment and that adjustment needs to be independent of the seat pan
- The chair should be capable of swiveling at least 360°
- To prevent the possibility of tipping, the chair should have five casters. The type of casters depends on the flooring material. Use hard casters for carpeted floors. Use soft casters for hard wood vinyl or when used on chair mats
- Look for chairs with a built-in tilt tension mechanism that controls the rate and ease with which the chair reclines to different weights and strengths of the user. This allows the user freedom to rock/shift in the chair, while not disturbing the original ergonomic settings

COMPUTER SUPPLIES

KEYBOARD AND MOUSE PLACEMENT

- Place the keyboard and mouse directly in front of and close to you.
- Adjust the keyboard as low as possible, but with adequate leg room.
- Adjust the slope of the keyboard so that your wrists are straight. They should not extend downward or upward while typing.
- Type with your hands and wrists floating above the keyboard, using the wrist pads only to rest your wrists while typing. Studies have shown that office workers tend to relax their arms against the wrist rest while using the computer. It is important to avoid doing so, as using the wrist rests to support the arms often isolates movements from your wrist down to your fingers, which can cause problems.
- Avoid resting your wrist on sharp objects (e.g., desk edge).

VERSAFILLER™ WATER FOUNTAIN & BOTTLE FILLERS

Enjoy the best of both water options; refreshing fountain water and a bottle filler unit for refillable bottles. The VersaFiller™ accomplishes both tasks with ease and simplicity, and puts your location at the top of the refillable bottle trend while making a bold statement about your concern for the environment.

The VersaFiller™ unit is available in two configurations. The ON557 (PWSBF) model can be retrofitted to existing OA059 (P8AC) coolers as well as Elkay's EZ8 models (some installation is required to connect this unit to existing P8AC models) providing an instant upgrade to those products already in the field.

The ON557 (PWSBF) is also designed for simplicity of installation, requiring only water tubing connection to the host (P8), with no required electrical connections or separate drains.

The VersaFiller™ can be purchased as a complete top and bottom combination as well, ON555 or ON556.
